Let's Start!

The ruins are amazing!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What do you know about Greek and Roman history?
- Do you think that time is interesting? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about buildings and structures.
- I can talk or report about actions, events or people.
- I can compare things.

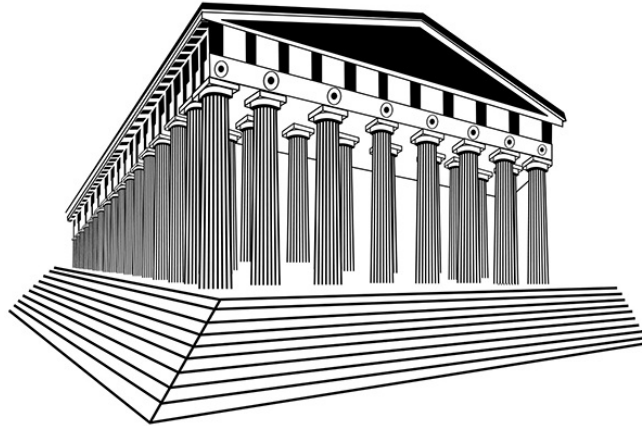

Let's Explore!

Sally marvels at the white columns at the Parthenon.

* A "column" is a cylindrical support. "Columns" are part of most ancient Greek buildings.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally's Suitcase

I arrived in Athens late last Monday. From my hotel window, I saw the Parthenon. I was struck by the imposing white structure sitting on the plateau above the city. It was lit up for all to see.

I decided to trek up there the next day. It was a steeper climb than I expected. The Parthenon was much bigger than I imagined. It was also more beautiful. It sat gleaming white in the morning sun.

Only temple priests ever went inside. In the smaller interior stood a 40-foot ivory and gold statue of Athena. In 1812 Lord Elgin took pieces of the temple back to London. Sadly, the British collection is larger than the one in Athens.
